

Tamás Görföl

researcher

INTERESTS

Viral diversity
Disease ecology
Bat systematics
Bat ectoparasites
Conservation biology

LANGUAGE

English

German

CONTACT

 Pécs, Hungary

 tamas@gorfol.eu

 +36 30 200 62 22

EXPERIENCE

University of Pécs, National Laboratory of Virology

2020-
researcher

Hungarian Natural History Museum

2013-2020
curator of mammals

Nature Conservation Foundation of Tolna County

2010-2013
project leader

EDUCATION

University of Veterinary Medicine, Doctoral School of Veterinary Medicine

2017
Veterinary Medicine PhD, summa cum laude

Szent István University, Faculty of Veterinary Sciences

2012
Biology MSc

University of Kaposvár, Faculty of Animal Sciences

2010
Nature Conservation BSc

PUBLICATIONS

ORCID: 0000-0002-1910-4024

Görföl, T., Tóth, G. E., Boldogh, S. A., Jakab, F., Kemenesi, G. (2022) Lloviu virus in Europe is an emerging disease of concern. ECOHEALTH, 19(1): 5–7.

Görföl, T., Huang, J. C. C., Csorba, G., et al. (2022) ChiroVox: a public library of bat calls. PEERJ, 10: e12445.

Görföl, T., Kruskop, S. V., Tu, V. T., Estók, P., Son, N. T., Csorba, G. (2020) A new genus of vespertilionid bat: the end of a long journey for Joffre's Pipistrelle (Chiroptera: Vespertilionidae). JOURNAL OF MAMMALOGY, 101(2): 331–348.

Wibbelt, G., Kurth, A., Hellmann, D., Weishar, M., Barlow, A., Veith, M., Prüger, J., Görföl, T., et al. (2010) White-Nose Syndrome Fungus (Geomyces destructans) in Bats, Europe. EMERGING INFECTIOUS DISEASES, 16(8): 1237–1243.